

On the graphics:

- Figures in white represent total population in 1989
- A significant proportion of groups marked in red are known to have been on the move since 1989
- Data from the 1989 census, published in Nationalnyi sostav naseleniia, Chast'll, Moscow, 1989

Armenia

$\square$ Armenians 3,082,000
$\square$ Azeris 85,000
$\square$ Kurds 56,000
3,304,000
$\square$ Russians 52,000

$\square$ Belarusians 7,898,000
$\square$ Russians $1,341,000$
$\square$ Poles 418,000
$\square$ Ukrainians 290,000

■ Georgians 3,789,006

- Armenians 437000
$\square$ Russians 339,000
$\square$ Azeris 307,000
- Ossetians 164,000 $\square$ Greeks 100,000
$\square$ Abkhazians 93,000
- Ukrainians 51,000
- Kurds 33,000

■ Kyrgyz 2,228,000
$\square$ Russians 917,000
-Uzbeks 550,000

- Ukrainians 108,000
- Germans 101,000
- Tatars 70,000
- Kazaks 37,000
$\square$ Dungans 37,000
$\square$ Uighurs 37,000
-Tajiks 34,000
$\square$ Meskhetians 21,000
$\square$ Koreans 18,000

- Moldovans 2,790,000

■Ukrainians 600,000

$\square$ Russians 560,000

$\square$ Gagauz 153,000

- Bulgarians 88,000

$\square$ Russians 119,807,000

Russian Federation

- Turkmen 2,524,000
$\square$ Russians 334,000
-Uzbeks 317,000
$\square$ Kazaks 880,00
■ Tatars 39,000
$\square$ Jews 486,000
$\square$ Belarusians 440,000
- Moldovans 324,000

Bulgarians 233,000
$\square$ Poles 219,000

- Hungarians 163,000

■ Romanians 135,000
$\square$ Greeks 99,000
$\square$ Tatars 87,000
$\square$ Armenians 60,000

- Azeris 59,000

■ Roma 48,000
圖 Crimean Tatars 44,000

