General comments on the evaluation:	UNHCR and UNDP appreciate the comprehensive, inclusive evaluation process and the resulting detailed report. This is the first evaluation of the Regional Refugee and Resilience Plan (3RP) for the Syrian refugee Crisis response since its inception in late 2014. The evaluation had been recommended by the 3RP's Regional Steering Committee (RSC) to measure how well the 3RP performs its functions in the areas of strategic leadership, coordination support to the operational response as well as advocacy, policy, and resource mobilisation. Furthermore, the aim of the evaluation was to look critically at coordination approaches and evaluate current areas of strengths, opportunities and challenges. The evaluation was also expected to frame how the 3RP mechanism could best evolve in response to a changing context across the region. The evaluation also sets a strong foundation for the future framing of how the 3RP mechanisms, acknowledging accomplishments to date and the continued importance of the 3RP while highlighting some broad areas where future efforts could be focused to further advance regional leadership related to strategic, coordination, planning advocacy fundraising and programming priorities. Some of the recommendations in the report, for example related to “re-initiate the regional strategic leadership function and strengthen the role of national leadership towards more inclusive agenda-setting for the Syria crisis response”, had also been emphasized by UNHCR and UNDP as priorities during the consultation process. Highlighting this in the recommendations is helpful although more concrete proposals on possible next steps, would have been valuable. Overall, UNHCR and UNDP appreciate the information provided in the report and the momentum it has garnered among partners in the region, to further advance the 3RP response.

RECOMMENDATION 1:		Evaluation Question 1: How has the 3RP provided effective strategic leadership, vision, and coordination for the Syria regional refugee crisis response. Conclusion: The 3RP has effectively carried out its knowledge management, fundraising and Regional Durable Solutions Working Group (RDSWG) functions, but its full potential to support and guide strategic decision making for the region’s response to the Syria crisis is not yet realized. Recommendation: Develop documentation that clarifies the conceptual framework that underpins the 3RP mandate and scope of work. This should clarify the 3RP position on and use of concepts such as the Humanitarian, Development and Peace Nexus (HDPN) and resilience, as well as 3RP alignment to other global standards and frameworks.
Management response:		<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Agree <input type="checkbox"/> Partially agree <input type="checkbox"/> Disagree
Reasons (if partially agree or disagree):		The UNHCR and UNDP agree with the recommendation, acknowledging the added value of further clarifying the conceptual framework adopted under the 3RP. Since its inception, the 3RP demonstrated uniqueness in convening over 270 humanitarian and development partners to address strategic issues in responding to this rather complex and protracted crisis integrating Humanitarian-Development response in one plan. Building on existing 3RP publications, the Joint Secretariat (JS) will draft a document that will help partners to better understand the regional model, introduce the 3RP position related to the HDPN and resilience and its link to relevant global standards and frameworks. Doing so in consultation with the 3RP partners, will also provide an opportunity to review and update components and be useful to reaffirm or build consensus around these strategic approaches.

Management response:	<input type="checkbox"/> Agree <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Partially agree <input type="checkbox"/> Disagree
Reasons (if partially agree or disagree):	UNHCR and UNDP agree with the overall thrust of this recommendation but would suggest to address this in a different manner than is suggested. The roles and responsibilities of the RSC and RTC are outlined in the Terms of Reference (TOR) of the respective Committees and complementary documents. These documents focus on operational aspects of the structures including membership, key roles and reporting lines that have remain valid the committees’ establishment. While there might be minor updates to these documents, we do agree with TANGO’s observation that “the role of the RTC in regional coordination needs to be revitalised” and believe it would be useful to draft a document to enhance the clarity of the overall 3RP structure, that summarizes roles and responsibilities for the RSC, RTC and JS. However, this should speak more to the vision and the interactions of the three structures, the 3RP operational model and the other key components listed in the recommendation. The drafting processes will take place in close consultation with the RTC and RSC to better understand how to best enhance the role of the committees, ensure their endorsement and commitment to taking the proposed changes forward. An update of the TORs of the committees or other relevant documents could take place after as needed.

This should build on evidence-based insights and options for consideration by response stakeholders. It must be a consultative process.

Management response:		<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Agree <input type="checkbox"/> Partially agree <input type="checkbox"/> Disagree
Reasons (if partially agree or disagree):		UNDP and UNHCR accept this recommendation and strongly agree with the observation about the continued importance of placing the national leadership and capacities at the forefront of the response. Since its inception, the 3RP has made this part of its strategic direction and placed emphasis on local and national capacity building. The evaluation report highlights some areas where regional support could be strengthened, for example related to overall capacity building, but provides limited information on the other areas where this is needed. UNHCR and UNDP are planning a consultative regional process that will be integrated into the annual planning process, to identify more granular information on the specific areas of support needed and integrate it into its work plan for the coming year. The JS of the 3RP will continue to coordinate with inter- agency coordinators, the Evaluation Task Force under the Regional Technical Committee (RTC) to validate the proposed direction forward. The findings from the consultations will be addressed and supports will be provided to strengthen national leadership.

1	Prepare Options Paper	JS in coordination with the RTC and country focal points	Following consultation with partners and the countries, an Options Paper will be drafted, highlighting 3RP related regional and country coordination needs and priority, taking into considerations possible contextual limitations, and framing a possible way forward regarding future 3RP regional support. This will strengthen the communication and supports between the region and countries.	To be finalized in Q1 2023 following end of the annual planning process	completed
					An Options Paper has been developed in coordination with country focal points. This paper outlines the roles, products, and emerging needs for future regional support within the 3RP framework. The regional support requirements of the 3RP countries were identified through several key channels: the Regional Planning Workshop in September 2023, the quarterly IA Coordinator calls in February, June, and September 2023, and country missions to Jordan in November 2022 and Egypt in March 2023.

RECOMMENDATION 4:	Evaluation Question 1: How has the 3RP provided effective strategic leadership, vision, and coordination for the Syria regional refugee crisis response. Conclusion: The 3RP has effectively carried out its knowledge management, fundraising and RDSWG functions, but its full potential to support and guide strategic decision making for the region's response to the Syria crisis is not yet realized. Recommendation: Develop an adaptive management plan covering the current and next annual planning cycle with metrics and targets to track progress on the issues raised in this evaluation report. This should include an overview of agreed changes to both the 3RP business model and its operating model, i.e., its specific function. Progress updates should be shared with 3RP members in a regular basis for accountability, feedback and collective learning.
Management response:	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Agree <input type="checkbox"/> Partially agree <input type="checkbox"/> Disagree
Reasons (if partially agree or disagree):	UNHCR and UNDP accept this recommendation and emphasize that in line with its internal policy, this management response to the evaluation sets action points, identify the responsible units, and a timeline for the planned actions. The two papers developed under recommendation 1 and 2 as well as a 3RP annual work plan that will integrate evaluation related action points, will be drafted before the end of the year for continuous monitoring of progress. Regular updates to 3RP regional members through the RTC and the Evaluation TF will ensure accountability and allow for a more participatory approach to the process.

Additionally, both the 2023 Regional Strategic Overview and the forthcoming 2024 Regional Strategic Overview feature an Evaluation Annex. 4. The TF will be able to share recommendations and feedback on the progress made and further action needed.	December 2022 and June 2023	completed
RECOMMENDATION 5:		Evaluation Question 2: How has the 3RP supported the operational response at the country level while promoting regional coherence. Conclusion: The 3RP successfully disseminated standards and tools to strengthen planning and coordination for a more coherent response at the regional level. 3RP support to country-level planning and coordination is being prioritised but needs to be further increased and strengthened. Recommendation: Organize structured consultations with national planning stakeholders at the country level with the objective to understand possible roles and emerging needs and priorities for future 3RP support level.
Management response:		<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Agree <input type="checkbox"/> Partially agree <input type="checkbox"/> Disagree
Reasons (if partially agree or disagree):

		UNHCR and UNDP agree with the usefulness of a review of the regional engagement with country focal points and partners including on roles, needs and priorities to continue to strengthen 3RP support to country-level planning and coordination. Despite extensive consultation with Key Informants, including national planning stakeholders at the country level, the evaluation provides limited detail on which areas specifically need review and strengthening. The evaluation report does not detail the specific support required by the countries. The JS has started engagement with country focal points and partners based on which the JS will develop an option paper that will aim to provide this detailed information that will in turn support 2023 coordination support. The consultation process will be integrated into the 2023 planning process so as to not create additional work for country focal points and to allow the JS us the process itself to gather additional information on priorities.

1	Undertake Consultations and formulate Option Paper	JS in coordination with Country Focal Points	Consultations with the country focal points will take place through bilateral calls (ongoing), the RPW and country missions to re-assess the regional engagement with the country focal points. Based on the feedback provided, an option paper outlining roles, products and emerging needs and priorities for future 3RP support will be drafted and finalized in consultation with the country focal points and the RTC. This should start with ongoing priority areas of work, such as social inclusion and Gender Equality and Women Empowerment (GEWE), and potentially extended into additional areas of thematic work. Working group assignments should produce tailored and specific guidance to countries, and enable strategic decisions for the RSC and other senior leadership.
Management response:		<input type="checkbox"/> Agree <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Partially agree <input type="checkbox"/> Disagree
Reasons (if partially agree or disagree):		UNDP and UNHCR have during recent years increasingly worked through country focal points in their engagement with partners. This approach has been useful to ensure national ownership, but direct engagement with national stakeholders to advance regional knowledge sharing has been recognized as important to reduce the burden on national focal points and create more direct communication between partners and the regional structure. During late 2021 UNDP and UNHCR launched a capacity building initiative related to social cohesion during which the JS worked with regional actors from the different countries and also conducted a workshop for over 100 partners to introduce the guidance documents and relay key concepts. This approach is similar to the one recommended by TANGO, though it did not involve a formal activation of a working group. UNDP and UNHCR will continue to build on this model of engagement and including through the activation of working groups if needed. Initial discussions with Focal Points have suggested the topics suggested by TANGO need to be reviewed through a wider consultation to ensure they are 3RP priority areas. Through the planned consultation process, UNDP and UNHCR, RTC members and partners in the countries will be consulted to identify or confirm priority areas of work. Based on recommendation seven in the report and consultations during the RPW, Advocacy should be a priority for work where the working group model should be useful to apply.

1	Identification of priority areas of work	JS in coordination with and Country Focal Points and partners	Through consultations with the country focal points and partners, identify priority areas where the RDSWG Workstream model (time and task bound WGs composed of technical experts) could be applied to produce key outputs. Following consultations with partners during the 3RP Regional Planning Workshop in September 2022, two taskforces were established: a Taskforce for the Conceptual and Operating Model and an Advocacy Taskforce. These were launched in November 2022 and December 2022, respectively.
RECOMMENDATION 7:	Evaluation Question 3: Has the 3RP provided an effective platform to conduct advocacy, policy, and resource mobilisation at the global and regional levels? Conclusion: The 3RP is a successful advocate and fundraiser for the Syria response. Addressing the risks and opportunities highlighted in this evaluation through a re-envisioned 3RP will strengthen its relevance, effectiveness and efficiency going forward. Recommendation: Organise an advocacy needs, gaps and opportunity assessment among regional and national 3RP partners and stakeholders to identify differentiated priorities and advocacy change pathways across sectors and cross-cutting themes. For example, how will advocacy activities lead to expected changes in resource mobilisation and fund allocation? This analysis should inform the development of an advocacy roadmap with metrics to track progress against expected output and outcome results. This roadmap would detail specifically (and sequentially) what advocacy activity gets conducted when and by who, and why – and what the expected results are of the combined advocacy efforts? The road map should be accompanied by an internal knowledge management and learning function to continuously test the implementation assumptions that underpin effectiveness of the advocacy activities.
Management response:	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Agree <input type="checkbox"/> Partially agree <input type="checkbox"/> Disagree
Reasons (if partially agree or disagree):	UNHCR and UNDP acknowledge the pivotal role played by partners over the past years in mobilizing resources and policy related advocacy to respond effectively to needs of affected populations in the 3RP countries. Regional advocacy efforts have for the most part taken place on a needs basis and UNHCR and UNDP agree that the 3RP mechanism would benefit from a structured advocacy road map that captures ongoing activities, opportunities, successes and lessons learnt. 1	Launch of Advocacy Working Group	RTC	Activation of an Advocacy Working Group under the RTC including regional and national partners (building on national advocacy coordination efforts as relevant).	Q4 2022	completed	In line with Recommendation 7, an Advocacy Taskforce was launched in December 2022, comprising three sub-working groups focused on:
2	Advocacy stocktaking paper	Advocacy Working Group	The working group will identify advocacy change pathways and conduct needs, gaps and opportunities assessment and summarize key findings and recommendations in overview paper. This will be presented to the RTC and relevant national structures for endorsement.	Q4 2022 - Q1 2023	completed	a) Development of key advocacy messages for the Brussels Conference on Syria; Although the development of key messages for the Brussels conference was not initially listed under the top line planned actions under the management response, the taskforce identified it as a primary objective. These messages, finalized and distributed in May 2023, also laid the groundwork for further advocacy messages, such as for the 2023 Global Refugee Forum (GRF).
3	Advocacy Roadmap	Advocacy Working Group in coordination with the RTC	Based on the findings above, the Advocacy Working Group in close engagement with key regional stakeholders and countries will develop an advocacy roadmap considering advocacy priorities for the regional 3RP and outlining requirement. The paper should complement national efforts but lend a regional perspective related to priority advocacy areas and identify regional areas of support and engagement and be nuanced about capacity and limitations. Unless advised otherwise by the working group, the roadmap will contain a section related to measuring output and tracking progress that can be utilized for the purpose of assessing impact. The final advocacy roadmap will be presented to the regional Communication Working Group to ensure that messages are aligned with broader communication efforts.	Q1 2023	completed	b) Creation of a 3RP Advocacy Stocktaking Paper; The Advocacy Taskforce conducted a survey in April-June 2023 to gather regional and country-specific data, supplementing this with insights from the September 2023 Regional Workshop.

					The Advocacy Stocktaking Paper, completed by the Advocacy Working Group (AWG)* in October 2023, reflects this comprehensive data collection. c) Development of a 3RP Advocacy Roadmap: I initiated by the Advocacy Taskforce in March and finalized by the AWG* in October 2023, the Advocacy Roadmap is a standing item in AWG meetings*. It outlines advocacy opportunities for the upcoming year. <hr/> * Advocacy Working Group (AWG): Established as a permanent entity following the time-bound Advocacy Taskforce, the AWG meets monthly to address ongoing advocacy needs beyond the management response objectives.
