The significance of the fortieth anniversary of the Cartagena Declaration on Refugees is more than a date to commemorate. It is an opportunity for the Latin American and Caribbean countries as well as other stakeholders to come together to acknowledge new challenges; to formulate new protection and solutions benchmarks; and to provide a framework to address them during the next decade in a spirit of solidarity, cooperation and collaboration. This event aims to present good practices, such as responsibility-sharing in line with the Global Compact on Refugees, which will be promoted through the 2024 Chile Declaration and Plan of Action.
